German Football history

Germany is one of the most successful national teams having won 4 world cups (1954, 1974, 1990 and 2014), three European championships (1972, 1980, 1996) and 1 confederations cup (2017). Germany were runners-up in the years: 1966 (when England won it); 1982 then again in 1986, and they lost to Brazil in 2002.

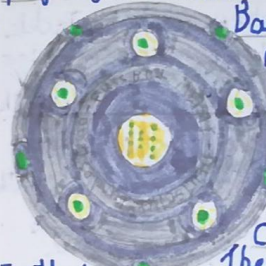

East Germany - West Germany football rivalry. The rivalry between the two teams from the East and West of Germany lasted from 1949-1990. In my opinion West Germany was the better side as they won 2 world cups and was runners-up 4 times, but East Germany won the only tie between the sides in the 1974 world cup final.

Germany is the only team to appear in every world cup!!!!

Bundesliga

The bundesliga is the top league in German football. The league includes teams across Germany and the players from across the world.

Bayern Munich is the most successful club in Germany with 30 top tier titles. Bayern is 1st by far the largest team in Germany (followed by BVB).

For the top four and relegation. This year Bayern won the league with Dortmund 2nd, RB Leipzig 3rd and Borussia Munchen Gladbach 4th. Both Dusseldorf and Paderborn being relegated.

This is Borussia Dortmund's 'yellow wall' The loudest stand in Germany!!!

Franz Beckenbauer

Former the greatest ever German footballer.

some of Germany's neighbouring rivals are France, Netherlands and Belgium. Here are their achievements:

Netherlands

- 0 world cups
- 1 European cup (1989)
- best world cup finish 2nd (1978 and 2010)
- nations league 2nd (2019)

France

- 2 world cups (1988, 2018)
- 2 European cups (1984, 2000)
- nations league, quarter final (2019)

Belgium

- best world cup finish 3rd (2018)
- best European cup finish 2nd (1980)

None of Germany's neighbours are as good as them when it comes to international competitions.

Dortmund

Our Dortmund package is a week at Leonardo Hotel. With football being the most popular sport in Germany, this trip takes you to many football stadiums around Dortmund. Your holiday starts with a tour of Signal Iduna Park, home of Borussia Dortmund. Followed by lunch at the stadium restaurant. After that, dinner is at Die Gerstein Mahlen. On Tuesday, there is a drive to Leverkusen and Mönchengladbach. The next day, you will visit Nürburgring and if you book at the right time, you will be able to take part in the Nürburgring track day, if you have a sporty car. After that, you are free to do whatever you want such as visit Düsseldorf. This ultimate holiday is once in a lifetime so don't miss out. More details on our website.

Ich bin ein Berliner

Food

There are lots of traditional cuisines in Germany, such as sauerkraut (raw, fermented cabbage) sauerbraten (roast beef stew) and spätzle (egg noodles). Sauerkraut is supposedly from Genghis Khan who brought it to Europe. Also, pretzels and beer are very popular. There are many markets in Germany, wherever you go so you won't get hungry whilst exploring this country. With over 1,500 types of sausages, you could be eating them for every meal. Berliners are donuts and are very popular in Germany. A Berliner is also a person from Berlin. JFK gave a speech in Berlin where he said those famous words. Although, he's not a jam doughnut.

These are one of the many types of sausage.

Sport in Munich

Home to 28-time Bundesliga winners Bayern Munich, the city is not stranger to big sports teams. If you like all sports, Munich is the place for you. With a successful basketball club (also called Bayern Munich). There is also a professional hockey club called EHC Red Bull München. Owned by the drinks company Red Bull, the club won 3 titles in a row from 2015-2018. 30 sports teams and clubs are based in Munich although, not many are well-known.

PETROL HEADS OF GERMANY!

By Rory Crawford

There are many cars that come from Germany. In fact, the Germans were the ones to invent the car! About 6 MILLION cars are made in Germany each year.

BMW Museum

The BMW museum, located in Munich, has collection of iconic and classic cars from the mid 20th century. It is also has a place where you can hold events and it has a restaurant inside. Other tourist attractions around the museum includes the Olympic Park and a palace. Munich once hosted the Olympic games in 1972. There are plenty of hotels to stay in nearby.

Mercedes Museum

The Mercedes Museum in Stuttgart has a modern contemporary look to it. Here, the first ever car is held. There is a cafe called Bertha's. This is a nod to Karl Benz's (the person who invented the car) wife. The museum neighbours the river Neckar which you can take a walk down. Plus, there is a sporting arena nearby.

Audi Museum

The Audi Museum in Ingolstadt has many original Audi's. There are rally cars, SUV's and classic cars located around the museum. There are shops, parks, restaurants and garages around Ingolstadt making it a great tourist destination.

The Nürburg Ring

The holy grail of racetracks, the Nürburg ring in west Germany is where sport car manufacturers come to test their cars. Its also open to the public on race days, you can as well come down to the track and race others. The fastest time yet was by the Porsche 919 Hybrid Evo, with a time of 5 mins and 19 seconds!

Traditional German Food

Traditional German food is normally quite Meaty and Rich. They include meat at Lunch, Dinner and often even at breakfast. A typical meal is usually meat covered in delicious sauces with bread and vegetables. They tend to serve this with a drink, they drink many things similar to what we have in the UK like:

- Tea
- Coffee
- Juice
- Milk
- Water.

But they are also big alcohol lovers and most commonly drink a pint of beer.

German Dishes

1. Sauerkraut (Roast beef stew)

This dish is a pot roast cooked into a delicious stew with beef and potato dumplings or boiled potatoes.

2. Schweinshaxe (Pork knuckle)

This is the ham hock or pork knuckle. It is usually roasted for a long time then served with cabbage and is most popular in Bavaria.

3. Rindervelade (Beef root)

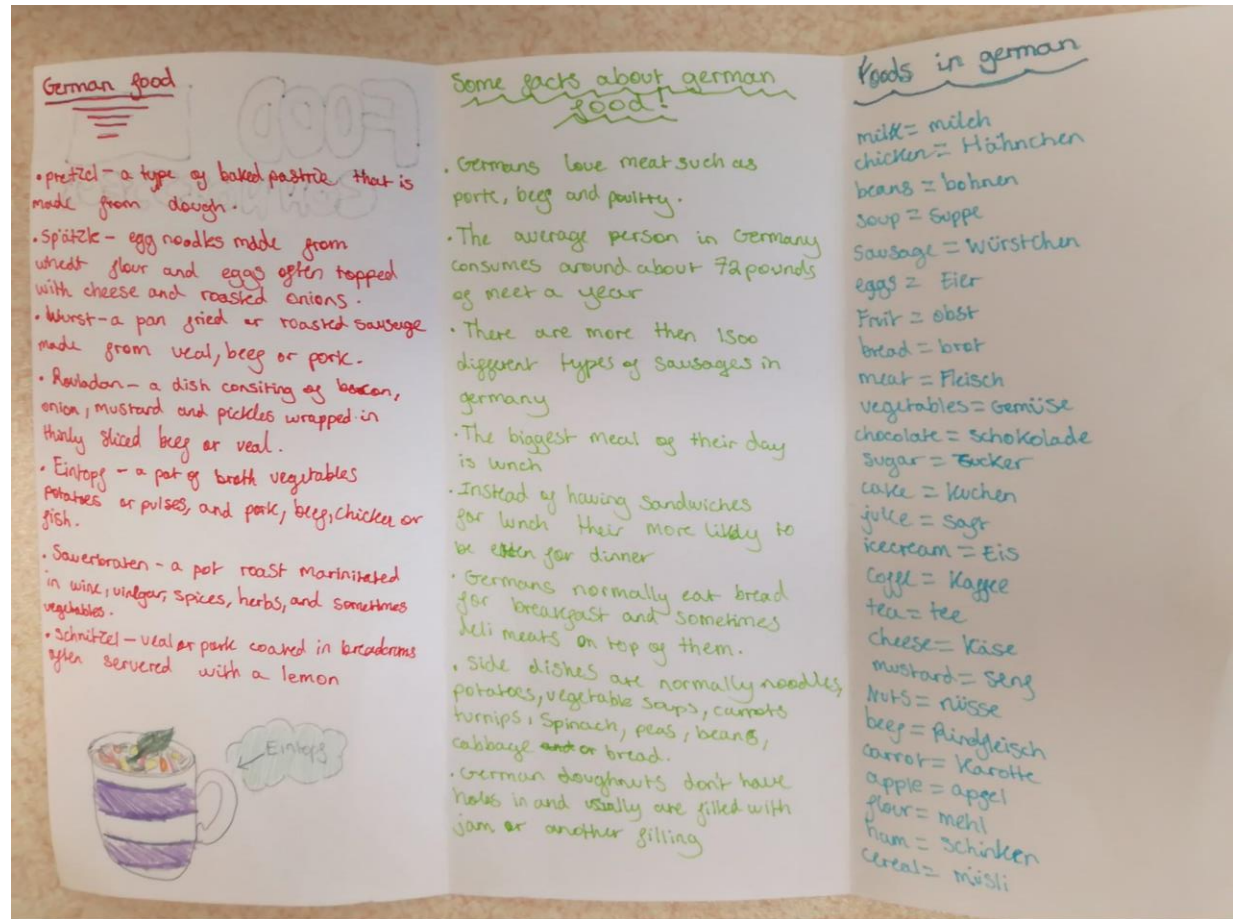

Thin beef slices are rolled around bacon, onions, pickles & mustard then roasted in wine.

Facts

Berlin, Germany's capital, dates to the 13th century. Reminders of the city's turbulent 20th century history include its Holocaust Memorial and the Berlin Wall's graffiti-covered remains. The city is also known for its art scene and modern landmarks like the gold-coloured, swan-shaped Berlin Philharmonie, built in 1963.

Cologne, a 2000-year-old city spanning the Rhine River in western Germany, is the region's cultural hub.

Dance

Schuhplattler, the Schuhplattler is a traditional style of folk dance popular in the regions of Bavaria and Tyrol (Southern Germany, Austria and the German-speaking regions of Northern Italy).

Food

The most common food in Germany is:

- Sauerbraten (Roast beef stew)
- Schweinshaxe (Pork knuckle)
- Rinderroulade (Beef roll)
- Bratwurst (Grilled sausage)
- Kartoffelpuffer (Potato pancake)
- Sauerkraut (Fermented cabbage)
- Spätzle (Egg noodles)
- Kartoffelsalat (Potato salad)

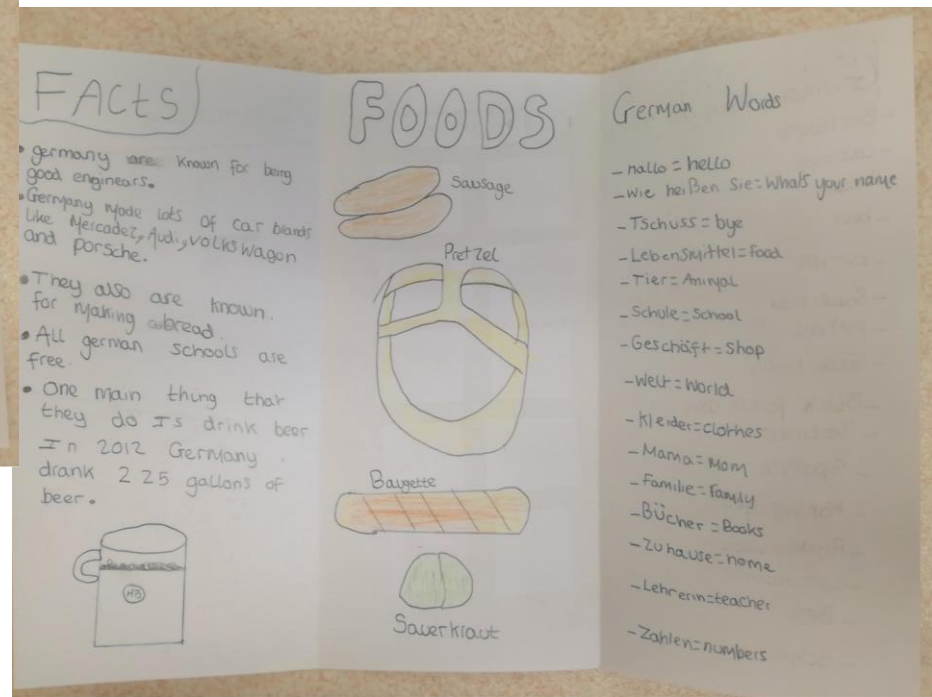

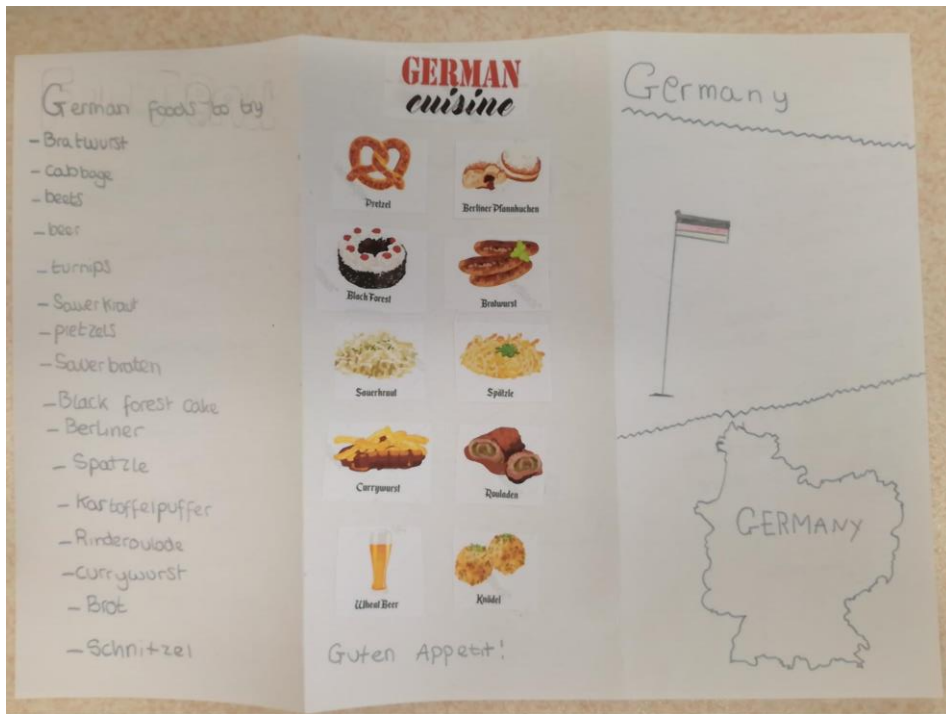

Bundesadler

Every country is associated with their own animal, for example China is associated with a giant panda, a Chinese dragon (mythical) and a Red-crowned crane. Germany is in fact associated with a mythical creature called Bundesadler. During the 19th century, the black eagle against a golden background was generally recognised as the emblem of the Holy Roman Empire. The single-headed eagle, Maximilian, came to symbolise the German Royalty.

the majority of people say the most alarming dish of this list is by far Gebackenes blut. This translates to baked blood and is precisely that, although it may not look it. Blood is often served in meat or soup but also a whole lot more, even cake! While you might think this is crazy; blood can actually be very beneficial for your organism as it consists of mostly protein and water.

Five-star foods

All of Germany's food is prepared with care and quality particularly their Labskaus. This wonderful dish may not appear appetising but believe me this is one of the most adored cuisine throughout Germany. This dish represents north Germany's seafaring traditions like no other as it possesses fresh nutritious fish directly from the ocean.

Another Schmackhaft (tasty) meal alternative is the Spätzle or traditional Swabian egg noodles. usually Germany is known for its delicious meat but shockingly this is one of the few traditional vegetarian meals in their country that is why it is so recognisable. traditionally Spätzle is served at a side for meaty dishes like Schnitzel, though it can also occasionally be a main course.

Similarly, a delectable meal could be Maultaschen which is particularly known in southern Germany. Despite this, the treat may also be found all around the country it may even be frozen in supermarkets. Additionally, in 2009 this dish was recognised as a regional speciality! This provides protection to the integrity of the dish.

Unusual foods

One of the most bizarre foods would have to be smoked eel yes this may sound crazy but people actually eat this and it is considered as a speciality. Yet, still it is eaten around the globe although, it originated in Germany. it is actually called Gerauchter Aal in Germany which translates to smoked eel.

This is milbenkase which translates to cheese mite and is exactly what it sounds to be. First, you put your desired cheese in a wooden box full of cheese mites. next, you wait for three months while the mites eat the rind; the digestive fluid they ooze ferments the cheese (even cheese fanatics would dare to try this). Finally, you eat your mite infested cheese with remorse.
